DAPUR KITA (WIP)

Dapur Kita is a website and mobile application that allows users to share, discover, and explore various recipes from a community of culinary lovers. With a focus on social experience and ease of sharing, Dapur Kita is a digital space for anyone who wants to share their culinary creations and get inspired by other people's recipes.

I am fully responsible for the planning process, UI/UX design, frontend & backend development, and deployment to web and mobile platforms. This project is a real manifestation of my interest in technology and the culinary world.

JABARYUK!

JabarYuk! is a travel exploration website designed to make it easier for users to find the best natural and cultural destinations in West Java. Through this platform, users can explore various tourist attractions, from mountains, waterfalls, beaches, to cultural sites. In addition, JabarYuk! also provides a list of hotels based on ratings to make it easier to plan a trip.

I developed JabarYuk! from research, design, to full implementation. This project was created to make it easier for local and out-of-town tourists to plan their trips to West Java more informatively and efficiently.
